ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Ireland has been glorified by the valor of her comon fields of hartle in nearly bestly band and elima. The decisive hastle of Waterloo shattered the pride and hope of France, and acred the Britania has been been been been been as the D. Nichaleson's checked Napoleon's victorious mark and horized back his veneral regions to defeat and death, in that sangulary conflict, was commanded by a general through whose veins coursed the blood of rich ancestors.

The sparkling wit and eleganese of theridan, the oratery and schularship of Surks, both statemen and tristmen, have enriched the literates of the age

Early in the fifth century the pe of Ireland were growing in pages dark-ners, and the yoke of the Brunds rested heavily upon them. There came to Erin about this time a comerkable man Scotland. He came with pracfrom Scetland. He came with peace and love is his beart, and brought the frospiel of the Crucified Redeemer for the people. A complete victory ever error and supersyllation was achieved, and the spiritual liberty of the inhab-tants of the "Emerald fale" was secured. This distinguished person was St. Pairiet, the patron saint of Ireland, and the measure, the even work that he ac-his memory, the great work that he ac complished on that "leband of Service, complished on that "latend of Service," every Hilbernian is proud to commen-orate on the 17th day of March.

The early years of St. Patrick's life were checkered with won. The name was Scorat and he lived with his father, a Christian descen, on the shore of the river Clyde, mutil he was sixtem years. of age, when he was stelen and sold as a of age, when he was states and soul awas shown to an Irish chief. Rix years were passed in captivity; then he comped and succeeded in exacting his father's hums. He remained but a short time at home, however, for he saw in a vision a letter, with the superscription, "The Voice of the Irish." Thus was N. Pal-rick's life, was receased to him. With rick's life's work revealed to him. With true Christian spirit he returned to the land on his torology, and boccat the former slave, became lit. Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland.

Apostle of Ireland. Boldly and successfully did the great esting-list sitzek the citabel of inqua-ism. The victory was complete and conclusive. The Irish chiefs and claus were converted to Christianity kin power of the Drinds waved and yanished, and in the next restury the land was known as the 'Island of Saints." Through St. Patrick, Ireland became the 'mother of a race of invesionaries."

Crossing the stormy seas in boats roads of wicknesses and covered with leather these devoted disciples carried the "glad hiddings" to the Angle-Saxons, and were the first standard-bearers of the Cros-
